Latest News.

[From the Atlanta Daily Confederate.]

CHARLESTON, June 22.—All quiet on James' Island. Yankee gun boats yesterday crossed the bar and shelled Morris Island and the beach, for a considerable distance towards Fort Sumter, and then returned to the blockading fleet.

Thirty-two Yankees ascended the Santee River on Friday, and cut out a steam tug, and a schooner, loaded with cotton.

Special Dispatch to the Savannah Republican. CHARLESTON, June 21.—Col. Davis, of the 2d Florida regiment, with his command crossed the river this morning at the Narrows, and sharp skirmishing ensued with the enemy. The result was, the Yankees were driven back to Jasper with considerable loss.

Scott's cavalry, Col. Fort-st. commanding, also engaged the enemy. The expedition was commanded by Gen. Leake, and our loss was one mortally wounded of Capt. Thompson's company, 31st Alabama, and three slightly wounded.

Capt. Gurley, of the Alabama Partisans, brought in to-day a Captain and two Lieutenants of the 15th Illinois regiment, who were captured twelve miles from Huntsville. Major Coffey, who was captured by Morgan, is to be exchanged for Lieut. Colonel Wood.

CHARLESTON, June 26.—Considerable skirmishing occurred with the enemy to-day at Rankin's Ferry, above Shell Mound. No casualties are reported. Col. Woodford's Kentucky cavalry, attached to Gen. Nagle's command, when ordered to do so, Sunday last, they also threatened to lay down their arms and return to their homes, if pillaging and robbery were further permitted in the Federal army.

CHARLESTON, June 23.—Nothing of special interest has transpired here for several days. Skirmishing along the lines is of daily occurrence. Gen. Joe Johnston is rapidly recovering, and will soon be able to resume his command. It is the prevailing belief here, that we are on the eve of stirring and decisive events.

CHARLESTON, June 23.—All quiet on James' Island. The gunboats yesterday shelled a detachment of the Marion Artillery posted on John's Island, and forced them to retire. Monday, June 21.—A special dispatch to the Atlantic City Register from Charleston, yesterday, says: "The enemy stampeded from Jasper, leaving their camp equipment and destroying the bridges over the Santee river. The enemy's loss is a Captain and lieutenant, killed, four wounded and four prisoners."

"They this morning returned within one mile of Jasper, 1,500 strong. Two deserters from the 15th Kentucky (federal) regiment came in to-day from Huntsville. They report most of the regiment disabled. Gen. Mitchell was at Huntsville with 3,000 men."

"Gen. Dumont, with 4,000 men left McMillanville for Morrisville on the 18th. "Skirmishing took place to-day at Clutch River, on the road to Morrisville and Cumberland Gap. The enemy is advancing in force, and a battle is expected."

SECOND DISPATCH.

A special dispatch to the Tribune from Grenada, Miss., the 22d, says: "Arrivals here from Memphis report the defeat of Gen. Curtis by General Hindman, in Arkansas. It is generally credited above."

Col. G. N. Fitch, with two Indiana regiments, was sent up White River to reinforce Ca. It. He attacked our batteries at St. Charles (Arkansas county, Ark.), 70 miles above mouth of White River, with two gunboats and with land forces, and succeeded in capturing them by an attack in the rear. Hot shot from our batteries entered the magazine of the Merritt City (one of the gunboats) and blew her into atoms, killing all but 12 out of 175 men on board.

Federal cavalry in considerable force appeared on Saturday at Cold Water Depot, on the Mississippi & Tennessee Railroad, thirty miles above Memphis. The cotton is being burnt throughout the upper counties, by the planters.

Richmond, June 24.—The Petersburg Express of this morning says the editor has conversed with a gentleman who recently left the rear of McClellan's army. He saw Philadelphia papers of the 19th. They contain full accounts of "guerrilla raid" of Gen. Stuart, and confess to much loss of property. They deny that the engineer of the train was killed. They do not contemplate a march on to Richmond till the reduction of the batteries at Drury's Bluff, to affect which, they have sent for Porter's mortar fleet.

Richmond, June 26.—The battle which is to decide the fate of Richmond was commenced this afternoon on the left wing of Confederate army. For three hours the firing has been rapid and continuous in the direction of Mechanicsville. The cannonading is heard distinctly in the city, and crowds have repaired to the hills north of the city, from whence the bursting of shells is occasionally visible. At 8 o'clock the firing is still progressing furiously.

Richmond, June 28.—The whole number of prisoners taken are about 36,000, including Generals Reynolds Sanders and Rawlin's and a large amount of prisoners produce and an excitement on the streets. All reports from the field confirm the thorough discomfiture of the Yankee army and many expect that McClellan will capitulate.

Several batteries were taken to-day. We have lost no general officers. Gen. Elzey has been wounded mortally. The callant Major Wheat, New Orleans Tigers was killed.

The Situation and its Consequences.

From the N. York Herald, (Editorial) July 6th.

General McClellan has failed to take Richmond, and has suffered serious losses in men, artillery and warlike materials and stores in his struggle to extricate himself from a position rendered untenable from the heavy reinforcements sent in to the army of the Confederates, and from the very scanty reinforcements sent to his own. With his army thus weakened by battle and disease, he could not hold his White House operations twenty miles in his rear and his entrenched lines of 10 miles in front of Richmond. The original plan, if we are not mistaken, was to move his whole Potomac army of 120,000 men in a grand semi-circle upon Richmond, sweeping the entire country from the Potomac to the Valley of Virginia before him, and contracting his lines as he advanced upon Richmond, not from the east, but from the north, thus leaving no loophole for Confederate raid into the Shenandoah Valley, nor any chance to the enemy to cut him off from the base of his supplies.

Unfortunately, however, this well-considered plan was set aside by the disorganized abolition radical of Congress, and abandoned by two or three political Generals of the Cabinet.

In the failure of his great and all-important enterprise, we have lost the labors of a campaign, and to repair this, and to drive the Confederates out of Virginia, will require an additional budget of many millions to our national debt.—The President cannot fail now to see where the responsibility belongs. A very significant line of indignation is beginning to develop itself in the public mind upon the subject, and directly against the Cabinet as at present constituted. Let the President look to his cabinet, and to its reconstruction as a war-unit with himself in the prosecution of the war for the integrity of the Union, and not the extinction of slavery, and all may yet be saved. Let him neglect this essential duty at this momentous crisis, and we may go on from bad to worse until all is lost.

THE STORM COMING.

The excitement now is but mere muttering the storm. Wait until the bugles of battle and the roar of the guns are published, and the storm will be then at its height. Already the people of Philadelphia feel Stanton's nose on the streets, and declare that no more men will enlist while he remains in office—New York city has suffered quite as much as Philadelphia, and shares these sentiments. Two New York regiments suffered at Bull Run, and the excitement here was fearful.—What will it be when the lists of killed and wounded come in new?

THE LOSS TO PUBLIC CREDIT.

The financial credit of the country has received a shock from the disaster to McClellan's army from which it will not easily recover. Previous to his being back from his position before Richmond, Government stocks were at an unprecedented premium, and the credit of the country never stood so high.

CHATTANOOGA.

We have just returned from a hasty visit to the above named place, which has been a point of considerable attraction for some weeks past, in consequence of the threatened attack upon it by the Yankees. On our arrival there, we found that little could be learned, either as to the position and intentions of the enemy, or the movements of the Confederate troops; and perhaps if we could have learned a great deal more than we did, it would not be prudent to give in publicity in a newspaper. It was generally believed that Buell was down about Bridgeport, massing his forces, some 20 or 30,000, and making preparations to cross and march upon Chattanooga. There was also said to be about the same number of Confederates camped in and around Chattanooga, and for miles down the railroad.

Chattanooga is certainly a most important point. It is the key to North-eastern Alabama and East Tennessee and the back-door to Georgia. It is admirably situated for defence, and we do not believe will be attacked, by any such force as Buell has; but we would not counsel the slightest relaxation of vigilance. The place still bears, and doubtless will for many long years, marks of the recent two days' bombardment; during which some 400 shells were thrown, making breaches in the roofs and walls of houses, and exploding in the streets. This bombardment was heroically repelled by the soldiers there, from the battery on the hill in the lower edge of the city, encouraged and sustained by the self-sacrificing firmness of the citizens and Mayor of the city, Dr. Milo Smith, who is fairly entitled to the honor of being the first Mayor in this war who refused to surrender a city on its being bombarded, and who declared his fixed and unalterable determination to suffer its destruction before its surrender, and still to stand and fight them upon its ruins and its ashes. Dr. Smith will be remembered by the early settlers of Jacksonville, having removed from this place to Chattanooga. He built the first private residence in Chattanooga; and we are not sure but he built about the first one here. We can say to his old friends and acquaintances that he is still the same kind, courteous, affable and unselfish gentleman, always more anxious for the public good than his own private interest. If we mistake not, the city of Chattanooga owes him a debt of gratitude it can never repay for his uniform, unceasing, public-spirited zeal for all its material interests and prosperity.

Soon after our arrival in the city, we met with our friend and former townsman, JAMES C. FRANCIS, Jr., who is Commissary of the post, and is performing with integrity, energy and ability, the arduous and complicated duties of his station, in a manner most satisfactory to all concerned, assisted by Mr. I. L. SWAN, also formerly of this place, and who has had much experience as an assistant commissary in the army in Virginia.

We also met with another old acquaintance while there, Wm. H. ESTILL, formerly a resident of this place, but for the last fifteen or twenty years a resident of Texas. He is now acting as commissary of a Texas brigade, encamped near Chattanooga. Judging from personal appearance, time has dealt gently with him. He seems zealously affected in the good cause of Southern independence, and we doubt not makes an excellent commissary.

On the morning after our arrival, in company with Dr. J. C. Francis of this place, Dr. Smith and J. C. Francis, Jr., Commissary of the Post, we went to the summit of the Look Out Mountain, some 4 miles distant. There is an excellent but winding wagon road which enabled us to ride to the very summit, twenty-seven hundred feet above the level of the Tennessee river, the beautiful and romantic windings of which can be seen for many miles above and below, until it passes through the gap of Walden's Ridge, at what is known as the "saw." We have not space, and if we had we should not attempt what we know the pen of Washington Irving, the gifted author of the Sketchbook would fail to accomplish, that is, to give the reader anything like an adequate idea of the sublime scenery of this locality. We have visited various mountain scenery in ten or twelve different States, but never anything to compare in grandeur and sublimity with this. Looking to three of the four points of the compass, can be seen parts of the States of Kentucky, Tennessee, North and South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama. Mr. Jefferson said it was worth a voyage across the Atlantic ocean, to visit the sublime scenery at Harper's Ferry, where the Potomac and Shenandoah meet and pass through the Gap of the Blue Ridge. We would say that a visit to the summit of Look Out Mountain would well repay at least a voyage of five hundred miles. On the table land on the top of the mountain, some fine buildings have been erected, capable of entertaining from five to seven hundred guests. These buildings were not at the time of our visit so occupied, in consequence of the destructive influence of the war on all such interests. We were placed to see, however, on the day of our visit, that under the humane and energetic supervision of Dr. Hamilton, Surgeon of the hospital, some 4 or five hundred of the sick soldiers were being removed from the hospitals in the city, to the comfortable and commodious buildings, salubrious atmosphere and pure water of the mountain. As we have incidentally mentioned the name of Dr. Hamilton, we will say something more in connection with it. As a stranger in the midst of strangers, we heard his praises uttered by many. He was said to be exceedingly skillful and indefatigable in his attention, treating each one of the hundreds of sick soldiers with all the sympathizing tenderness he would own of his own near relations. On the morning of the removal of the sick to the mountain, we saw him with his coat off, assisting the sick soldiers, giving them kind words of encouragement, and carrying their knapsacks and blankets. Instead of, as some would have done, stepping about and giving orders with his gloves on. In short we came to the conclusion that he was the "right man in the right place," with a heart in the right place. Would to God, that every regiment and hospital in the Confederate service were blessed with such surgeons.

On our return, we accepted the generous invitation of Col. George Foster, who lives at the first house on top of the mountain, to dine with him. The Colonel was an old friend and acquaintance of the two Doctors, and we, on account of being found in good company, were soon upon good terms with him. The pure mountain water, and excellent dinner, furnished by the kind and friendly lady of the Colonel, were very refreshing after the fatigues of our mountain ramble; and we take this occasion to return our sincere thanks, and those of the company, for that kindly manifestation of genuine Tennessee hospitality.

After leaving Chattanooga, we extended our visit by railway, through the counties of Bradley, McMinn and Monroe, to within 40 miles of Knoxville. From Dalton to Chattanooga, and from Chattanooga to where we went, and as far north as we have heard from, the crops of corn were excellent, not having suffered from rain a single day. But from Dalton this way, there are several streaks where the drought has been more, or less severe.

With well qualified, experienced and accomplished teachers, with whom our community are well satisfied, we can but think that this institution will be more liberally patronized than even heretofore.

A lady of this place a few days since, sent us a beautiful specimen of mixed wood pulp from the factory of Mr. E. G. Morris, on Cane Creek. We do not think any one could fail to be pleased with these rolls.

We tender our thanks to Mrs. Neal for the large apples sent us. They are the finest we have seen of this season.

Mr. WALTER, Clerical Agent for this District, arrived in our place on Sunday morning last. We understand he will probably make Oxford his headquarters.

We are compelled to postpone the publication of several pieces of original poetry and obituary notices until next week.

Came near Richmond, GRANGER COUNTY, TENNESSEE, July 16th, 1862.

Mr. Grant's Son—The 31st Ala. Regt. Guards immortalized an history page for having withstood the shelling of Chattanooga, two consecutive days, supporting the batteries No 1 and 2, sustaining no loss to themselves, nor allowing any injury to the property of the regiment of the unfortunat town, "saving the killing of a cow by an unbelieved explosion of a warbling shell," is here, and where here is, more than I can say, by speaking a word, and finding Granger county, then that the county site, then the west one mile, you can locate us, then by informing me where we are you will ever retain that high esteem I have ever entertained for you. Though a hunter from my youth, brought up in the woods and never lost till now, I frankly acknowledge that I do not know the course or distance from this camp to any place, except Rutledge, which is the east and you start due west to go there. If the little county of Judea beats this, I pity the inhabitants thereof. To illustrate only think of the boys tying their beds with hickory bark to sapplings when they go to sleep to keep from snoring each other, en masse at the foot of the hill.

There are no Yankees this side Cumberland Gap. All have "skedaddled," since hearing of the Richmond fight. This is an important point to hold, and we will hold it, (unless in parry). We have contingents to our camps numerous springs of various qualities of water, viz: red, white and black sulphur, also freestone, chalybeate and alum springs, the freestone of the waters of which have greatly improved the health of our Regt. We are getting as snug as Jackals, as they are rockbacks, as bold as lions and spelling for a fight. If liberty is to be purchased in such a sacrifice, we are only fitting our time to emulate the immortal 10th.

The 36th Ala. is somewhere in this back of woods. I frequently see some of the boys, and hear their hallooing, but positively do not know how far they are from us, if either gets into a fight, I guess the other would be there or thereabouts soon. I am necessitated to close this offhand letter. Respectfully, P.

Gen. David E. Twiggs.

The "Augusta Constitutionalist" in referring to the death of this gallant old soldier, says that he was born in 1789, and entered the old United States Army in 1816 he was appointed a Brigadier General, and on the 28th September of the same year, he was brevetted a Major-General. When Georgia seceded from the Union he resigned his commission in the Federal army, and was placed by the Confederate Government in command of the military department of New Orleans but age and feeble health compelled him to resign. Before proceeding to Augusta, he spent some weeks in Atlanta, when we had the pleasure of seeing the old hero every day, and of being enlightened by his counsel and criticisms on the pending war. We regretted deeply to hear of his death so soon after he left us.

The "Constitutionalist" refers to an instance in the life of this hero, and pure Southern patriot, which goes to prove what a true man the South has lost aside from the throwing up of his commission when Georgia seceded from the Union. That paper says:—"It is mentioned that during the difficulties between Georgia and the Federal Government, under the administration of President Adams, Gen. Twiggs, fearing that he might be called upon to act against his native State, tendered his resignation to the Government as an officer of the United States army. So high was the esteem in which he was held, however, his resignation was not accepted, but he was transferred to another department."

GENERAL CHURCHILL.

ATLANTA, July 15 1862.

Messrs. Editors—Buell's advance into East Tennessee naturally makes us inquire what commanders we have there. Of the number, we can justly say, that there is not one truer, braver, or more skillful than Brig Gen. Churchill who now commands a Division of Arkansas and Texans at Chattanooga. He is one of the few who have risen by their own merit and military genius without the aid of West Point. The General saw much hard service in Mexico, and was one of the first to rally to the standard of his native South at the commencement of our difficulties. Raising the second regiment in his adopted State—Arkansas—he won for himself at Oak Hills, a reputation that will enroll his name in history as one of the bravest of the brave. He, with his gallant regiment, there held in check a largely superior force of the enemy led by the brave Gen. Lyons in person, and strewed the celebrated bald-hill—where Gen. Lyons himself fell with heaps of the enemy's slain. In the engagement, he had two horses shot under him, and his regiment out of less than 400 men, lost over 200 in killed and wounded.

At the unfortunate and badly managed battle of Elk Horn he again distinguished himself. On his arrival at Van Buren, nearly worn out with incessant labor during the retreat, he found himself a Federal—Morris has at last received its reward. When the Army of the west was transferred to Corinth he was put in command of a brigade, and now as hard fighting is expected at Chattanooga he is transferred there. You may expect to hear ere long, of deeds performed by his veteran troops, nearly all of whom have seen hard service in Arkansas and Missouri.

O. Atlanta Intelligence.

HINT TO FARMERS.—A practical and highly successful planter of this county, in a conversation yesterday requested us to say to his brother planters that corn planted up to the first of August will mature enough to make the best food for hogs and cattle. He is now cutting his young corn with mowing cars just haying, and feeding it to his stock, and intends, as soon as it rains to replant to be cut again before frost for the same purpose.

Stubble lands, or land where the corn is exhausted by the drought, if it rains before the 1st of August, will yield large profit. Take the hint—Editorial Whig and Observer.

THE CAPTURED ARMS.—It is found, upon examination, that comparatively few of the muskets captured from the Yankees before Richmond, have sustained serious damage. The fact is they did not have time, on their famous retreat from the Chickahominy to make the destruction of property complete, and hence we find in a lot 20,000 not more than 1000 that cannot be speedily rendered as good as new. These arms are generally of superior quality, including many of recent invention and European manufacture.—Richmond Dispatch.

GEN. TOMBS.—We learn from parties just returned from Richmond, that Gen. Tombs has resigned his command with a view of retiring from the army.—Columbus Times.

OBITUARY.

Mr. J. F. Grant—Permit me through your paper to say a few words in relation to the life and death of R. A. CARUTH late of Calhoun County, Ala. Perhaps the true merits of the lamented soldier, Christian and patriot, are not known and appreciated among the people as they ought to be;—he was among the first in Alabama on the South, to espouse the cause of the South in bold defiance of any and all opposition—he often said in my hearing that he was willing to give all he possessed in this world for his beloved South, and then said he: "I am willing to offer my body upon the altar of our common country as the last offering I am able to give." As to giving his money or anything he possessed of this world's goods he did that with a lavish hand. No soldier or company of soldiers, could ask of him in vain; he was always ready to do his part. If there has ever been any man in this country more willing to discharge his whole duty to his country than R. A. Caruth, it was not our pleasure to know him. But alas! he is not—he fell from the effects of that most of all diseases to be dreaded, the consumption. He suffered much and long, yet it is said he bore his affliction with becoming Christian fortitude and patience, he died in the hospital at Corinth, Miss. just after the battle of Shiloh. He was a member of Capt. Northeast's company, 22d Ala. Reg't. It may be truly said of him, the country has lost a true patriot, one devoted to his country, one that was willing to give all, yes, even life, for his country's defence. The church too, one of its most devoted and humble members, the community a true honest and peaceable citizen. An affectionate wife, a true and loving husband—his tender little ones, a fond father. He leaves a young wife with two small children. We would say to the wife, grieve not, thy husband is gone where war is not known, where nothing can ever invade that eternal happiness and repose into which the spirit of thy Christian husband has gone:—

He fell but he fell like a soldier,
He died at his post.
W. W. FITTS.
July 10, 1862.

Sacred to the memory of Benjamin O. and Reuben P. McGee. The former was born Feb. 9th 1835 and died April 20 1862. The latter was born Oct. 8th 1832. Both of whom alike died with zeal for their beloved country's cause left their father's residence in the latter part of September 1861, with high hopes of victory. Joined Capt. Alexander's co. of the 25th Ala. They went into camp at Whitesboro, Talladega county. From thence they were removed to Auburn. Thence to Mobile and about the first of March to Corinth, at which place the health of former entirely failed and he was forced to ask for a discharge and by the help of God, he got to his father's house on the 18th March having traveled under as much weariness, and weakness, as a man ever traveled, not to be utterly helpless.

The latter of the two remained until the battle of Shiloh, in which he fought bravely on Sunday, that hard and most successful day of the fight, which prostrated him, rendering him entirely unable for duty, in which state he remained until near the latter part of May, when the sick being removed in order to find quarters for them at the different hospitals, but in consequence of failing to find room for all, R. H. was providentially among the few who were furloughed by the Quartermaster, to go home and up on the 4th day of June he reached his father's residence. The two brothers sought and obtained religion at an early period of life. Neither of them being more than 12 years of age and joined the M. E. Church South, maintaining their membership until their last days on earth. On leaving for the army they told their Father that they intended to do right, and doubtless they did for notwithstanding at the time they started for the camp, they were not quite so warm in religious enjoyment as at other times they had been, yet when at Mobile after having stood the fiery trials of camp life up to Feb 1862 each one of them gave in a letter, in which each one of them gave good evidence of their acceptance with God, in which frame of mind they both doubtless were when they arrived at home and in which they steadily remained until their departure, for at no time did they when spoken to on that point, express the least want of resignation to the Almighty's will. Thus passed away the two brothers without a murmur or complaint, and in patient resignation took their exit to where war and bloodshed are no more.

Their loss is felt and mourned by many friends and acquaintances whose loss is their eternal gain.

DIED—July the 1st at half after 6 o'clock in the morning, Mrs. NANCY B. BROWN, wife of Wm. A. Brown, and daughter of Wm. P. and AMANDA C. NIXON, of Calhoun County Ala., aged 22 years 3 months and 2 days.

She has left a husband and an infant son to mourn the irreparable loss. She was a meek and pious member of the Baptist Church. She was a devoted wife and mother and a kind neighbor. The religion of the meek and lowly Saviour, was exemplified in her walk in life; as a member of the Church, a wife, a mother and a sister. Although she is dead, her precious memory, like the odor of the incense that was poured on the Saviour's head still fills the social circle.

Her affliction was severe, yet borne with great resignation; in midst of them she enjoyed peace with God. The day before she died, the Lord visited her and made her very happy. She told her weeping friends, to grieve not for her, for she was going home to Heaven. She exclaimed to her father and said: "Father, I want you all to meet me there in that happy place where parting is no more." She took her little son by the hand, and called him by name, and exclaimed: "Farewell, farewell for the last time," and called to her father and says: "Pa I want you to try to learn my child to live for Jesus," and casting her eyes upward, and called to her blessed Saviour to come on and take her away.

Her body sleeps in the family burying ground, while her soul is gathered unto her fathers, to await the resurrection of the just at the last day. She rests from her toils and cares far from this world of trial and strife. She is present with the Lord, the labors of her life end in a large reward.

Dearest sister thou was mild and lovely,
Gentle as the summer breeze,
Placid as the silver stream,
When it flows among the trees.

Dearest sister thou hast left us
And thy loss we deeply feel,
But as 'tis God that hath bereft us
He can all our sorrows heal.

Yet again we hope to meet thee,
If then the day of life is ours,
When in Heaven with joy we meet thee,
Where no farewell tears are shed.

Among the gallant defenders of our soil, who perished at their life-blood in the late battles near Richmond, Va., we mournfully record the name of P. H. WALKER a member of Co. "D," 10th Ala. Reg't.

He fell mortally wounded on the 30th of June 1862, and died a few hours afterwards. The deceased was a young man of more than ordinary moral worth and was universally beloved by his acquaintances.

Obedient to his country's call and the patriotic impulses of his own bosom, he entered the service of his country, as a soldier more than twelve months ago. He cheerfully shared the duties, dangers and sufferings of the camp and battlefield, with his comrades. He was a brave soldier and a pleasant companion. 'Tis truly consoling to his numerous relatives and friends, who deeply feel his loss, to learn from those who stood around him in his last moments, that death did not find him unprepared.

So far as the writer of this notice knows, he had made no public profession of religion, but the dread realities of war seem to have turned his thoughts, amid the duties of camp and the roar and smoke of battle, to Him, who alone can save.

He expressed himself as having a hope of coming blessedness—a hope of meeting his beloved parents, who had years ago preceded him, in Heaven. He sleeps among the gallant dead, where he shall hear the storm of battle no more. His noble spirit we trust rests with the redeemed—
"Calm on the bosom of thy God,
Fair spirit rest thee now."

A FRIEND.

DIED on the 22d of July 1862, Sergeant WYATT M. McDANIEL, a member of company "G," 16th Ala. Reg't. of wounds received in the recent battle before Richmond.

The deceased was among the first in Calhoun county, to volunteer for the war, in response to the call of the country, to meet the ruthless invader, whose foul tread was thus desecrating the soil of Virginia. He marched to the ground of the drum, 12 long months and whatever of marches, of toils, of hunger and privations he bore his part. He was one of those soldiers who was under all circumstances, at his post, and ever ready if need be, to share the peril and disasters of the field of battle.

The writer has known him long and well—he has marched by his side, in winter's cold and summer's heat, and has passed with him through four sanguinary conflicts, in each of which many a Southern son has fallen in fight no more.

This bereavement has fallen heavily upon a sorrowing father—it will cast a gloom over the officers and men of his company. Truly another victim has fallen in defense of constitutional liberty! We would gladly have seen him in his last moments, and shed the tear of regret at his departure.

He is now "where the wicked cease from troubling." He sleeps on the banks of the Talapoosa, undisturbed by the roar of artillery, or the sobs of victory.
